

Dominion software manipulated votes -- 289K in Michigan, 96K in Georgia, lawsuits claim

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

Sidney Powell, who is not on the president's legal team but is filing pro-Trump lawsuits, sued officials in Michigan on Wednesday alleging Dominion Voting Systems software switched tens of thousands of votes for Mr. Trump to presumptive President-elect Joseph R. Biden.

The software manipulation, according to the complaint, was coupled with other fraud such as backdating absentee ballots.

TOP STORIES

Biden a dark money puppet

New Yorkers turn on Cuomo as aide's accusations speed stunning downfall
Fox News, OANN, Newsmax in crosshairs as Democrats push conservative media purge

"While this complaint, and the eyewitness and expert testimony incorporated herein, identify with specificity sufficient ballots required to overturn and reverse the election results, the entire process is so riddled with fraud, illegality, and statistical impossibility that this court, and Michigan's voters, courts, and legislators, cannot rely on, or certify, any numbers resulting from this election," said the 75-page lawsuit.

Hundreds of pages of exhibits were attached to the complaint, including affidavits from expert witnesses.

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

minors is 'best option'

The crux of their claim in Michigan is there's "incontrovertible physical evidence" that the security of the voting machines was jeopardized by the software being connected to the internet, which the lawyers say violated federal election law.

The lawsuit claims the software was developed by individuals with ties to the late Venezuelan dictator Hugo Chavez and has been used to fix elections in other countries.

Dominion Voting Systems, which has a corporate lineage that is linked to Chavez, provided vote-counting software to about two dozen states including Michigan and Georgia.

The Michigan lawsuit points to an expert witness, Russell Ramsland Jr., who

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

Dominion is not listed as a defendant in the cases. The company has repeatedly denied wrongdoing or that its machines were manipulated in the 2020 election.

A spokesperson for the company said Ms. Powell's allegations are conspiracy theories and the Georgia complaint is "baseless, senseless, physically impossible."

"Sidney Powell's wild and reckless allegations are not only demonstrably false, they have led to stalking, harassment, and death threats to Dominion employees," Dominion Voting Systems said in a lengthy statement. "This criminal activity has been duly reported to the appropriate law enforcement agencies, and we intend to hold Ms. Powell, and those aiding and abetting her fraudulent actions, accountable for any harm that may occur as a result."

Mr. Biden is presumed to have won Michigan, defeating Mr. Trump by roughly 154,188 votes, or 2.8%. The state canvassing board voted to certify the results Monday.

In Georgia, Ms. Powell and her legal team are suing the governor and the

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

Officials in the Peach State certified the election for Mr. Biden after a hand recount. Mr. Biden defeated Mr. Trump by about 12,600 votes, or a 0.2% margin. The certification awarded Mr. Biden the state's 16 electoral votes.

The attorneys general for Michigan and Georgia did not immediately respond to a request for comment on Ms. Powell's lawsuits.

In Pennsylvania, Trump legal team leader Rudolph W. Giuliani presented witness testimony before an informal hearing with Republican state lawmakers Wednesday.

Retired U.S. Army Col. Phil Waldren, a computer warfare expert, said an estimated 1.2 million votes were altered in Pennsylvania.

His team of analysts focused on anomalies of spikes in election returns. In one instance, about 337,000 ballots he called "loaded votes" had been added to the count on Election Day during a 90-minute span.

"Normally, you would expect to see a smooth curve," he said. "That big spike that occurred there is a prime indicator of fraudulent votes."

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

The judge halted further certification of the state's election results, but the attorney general of Pennsylvania vowed to appeal to the state's highest court.

However, a federal appeals court on Friday rejected the president's constitutional challenge which alleged a violation of Equal Protection, saying some Democratic counties in Pennsylvania allowed voters to cure errors on mail-in ballots before Election Day while Republican counties did not afford voters the same opportunity.

"Free, fair elections are the lifeblood of our democracy," Judge Stephanos Bibas of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals wrote in a 21-page opinion. "Charges of unfairness are serious. But calling an election unfair does not make it so. Charges require specific allegations and then proof. We have neither here."

The move affirms a lower court ruling issued Saturday.

Judges David Smith and Michael Chagares, both George W. Bush appointees, joined the opinion.

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

Nearly three weeks after the election, Mr. Trump appears far from his goal of reversing the projected outcome.

The most likely path to victory for Mr. Trump would have been through Pennsylvania. If somehow he still prevailed there, he would also need to reverse projected losses in at least two other states to reach the 270 electoral votes required to win the White House.

The campaign is fighting to make up ground in Wisconsin, with a recount underway in two of the state's largest counties.

The Wisconsin recount likely won't wrap up until just before the state's certification deadline of Dec. 1. Mr. Trump trails Mr. Biden in the state by about 20,600 votes, or 0.7%.

SIGN UP FOR DAILY NEWSLETTERS

Submit Manage Newsletters

Copyright © 2021 The Washington Times, LLC. Click here for reprint permission.

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

Feud is on: Taylor Greene posts 'two...

Media's : coverage

 GreenGoggles

No, Congressman Kinzinger,...

 Cya

The best : mainstre:

 Top Comment  16

 Top Con

AdChoices

Sponsored

Conversation 237 Comments

When logging in with Disqus, please only use the "Email" option with the same details you already provided or use the "Forgot your password" option

Commenting as Guest

 Log In

What do you think?

Sort by Best

T Teiuq

27 November, 2020

The entire European world is abuzz with acceptance that democrats are way out of line on voter fraud. It was always tolerated. In Chicago, in the old days, they'd come to the door and chat politics, then give the new voter a case of beer. They knew how many were registered in a given precinct so they'd get out there and entice new registrations.

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

political media - dominated glamour politics. All of it grew directly from their ownership of the Fourth Estate.

Reply 👍 56 🗨️ 23

L Locke Smackup Now! es Teiuq

30 November, 2020

Anyone confused about who is lying, here is all you need to know to tell you EXACTLY why we have a DNC/RINO/CIA Propaganda Machine, aka "FAKE NEWS" instead of real news. Plenty of CIA whistle blowers that have confirmed this for YEARS.

"Amends the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1986 and 1987 to prohibit funds for the Department of State or the Board from being used to influence public opinion or propagandizing in the United States. "

"States that such provision shall: (1) not prohibit the Department or the Board from providing information about its operations, policies, programs, or program material, or making such information available to members of the media, public, or Congress; (2) not be construed to prohibit the Department from engaging in any medium of information on a presumption that a U.S. domestic audience may be exposed to program material"See more

Reply 👍 2 🗨️ 1

o Orangestain > Teiuq

29 November, 2020

Read the article here from a real republican. Nothing but conspiracies, distortions and outright lies for the past 4 years. Stop hurting the United States of America and Americans with this farce.

<https://www.forbes.com/sites/andrewsolender/2020/11/28/im-sick-of-it-gop->

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

G Guest 27 November, 2020

Dominion would not have been awarded the contract if it didn't take care of the DNC somehow, that's how The Swamp does business.

Reply  53  11

 Show 1 previous reply

B BluesMessiah > Guest 28 November, 2020

Dominion got the contract in Red states too. I guess they are all secret Dems huh?

Reply  11  4

 Show 1 more reply

A applebonker > Guest 27 November, 2020

I would recommend avoiding those machines. Mail-in is also a no-no, according to Q.

Reply  9  3

 Show 2 more replies

AdChoices

Sponsored

Show More Comments

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.

Get our news alert newsletter. Directly to your inbox.

Sign up for timely coverage of the hot-button issues affecting politics and popular culture.